Caring for the Caregiver

We as funeral directors deal daily with individuals and families that have experienced a great loss. They look to you for guidance for preparing a celebration of life to commemorate their loved one. It is our purpose and goal to provide compassionate and loving care to our client families so as to assist them through their darkest times. We provide consultation and information on how they may best deal with their loss in order for them to continue their lives following such a loss.

But, how do you care for yourself? How do you prepare yourself to help others deal with grief, day in and day out? As funeral service professionals, we experience many emotions while trying to serve our client families. Whether we personally know the deceased or not, we often find ourselves in the place of a family member and are affected by the grief they are feeling.

Many times we find ourselves dealing with extremely stressful situations and it is essential that we maintain our mental composure. It is our duty to serve our families from the original death call through the closing of the grave to the providing of aftercare services.

Quite often I am told, "I don't know how you do what you do"; or asked, "How do you do this every day?" Their question acknowledges the difficulty of being a funeral director and the grief with which we are confronted with on a daily basis. But this is what we do. As a caregiver, we are constantly touched by the sorrow and grief experienced through our client families.

But what effect does this have on you and your ability to provide the ultimate degree of care to those you serve? Giving of ourselves is our calling as funeral directors but we must be able to recognize our limitations. By realizing the mental stress we experience, we may realize how we may best take care of our client families while sustaining our passion for what we do. If we neglect ourselves, we cannot provide the care to which we aspire. In order for us to be truly effective in funeral service, we must take the time to recharge our batteries, explore our needs, and take time for introspection.

We must balance the demands of our work with caring for ourselves. To do this will require introspection while creating the mental, emotional, and physical energy to help those who seek our help. As funeral directors, we should broaden our understanding of the ways we react and grow with our experiences. It is not always what we may do for our families, but how we listen to them may encourage the healing of their sorrow.

"As a caregiver, we are constantly touched by the sorrow and grief experienced through our client families. How do we prepare ourselves?"

Understanding our reaction and how our beliefs and behaviors affect them allows us to hear what they are saying. Through this self-reflection, we encourage an openness that helps us to be more emotionally available to them and in turn we may be able to provide more comfort when planning a service for their loved one.

As funeral directors, there are most certainly times when we may struggle to be compassionate. We may be dealing with the family of a drunk driver that caused the injury or death of an innocent bystander. We may feel disgusted with their behavior that led to this tragedy; it's a natural reaction. We will be challenged, but we need to understand our reactions so we may be more attentive and supportive to the family. Their grief is no less felt than others.

In order to take care of yourself, I encourage you to explore your needs. It is necessary to make time for your family and yourself. Whether it's playing golf, going fishing, crocheting, going out to dinner, or twiddling your thumbs, take the time to enjoy yourself. When we don't take care of ourselves we become irritable and lose focus, thus becoming less capable to care for our client families at the funeral home.

Judy and I have just returned from the 2015 VFDA Winter Conference in Richmond. The conference was well attended, quite informative and continues to grow each year. Thank you from VFDA to all who attended and we hope you enjoyed your stay.

Remember the VFDA Educational Caravan is headed your way. Speaking of enjoying yourself, mark your calendars for the 2015 VFDA Annual Convention, June 14-17 at the Hotel Roanoke and we can all enjoy the company of one another as well.

Thank you for your support of VFDA and take care of yourself!

Sincerely,
Rob

Your Contributions Change Lives & Influence Industry Growth

As most of you are aware, the Association has three major funds: the Professional Futures Fund, the PAC and the Foundation. The importance of contributions you make to each of those funds as members is critical. I want to take a minute to share with you the power and influence your contributions have on individual lives and within the industry. Each of these funds play a key role in the Association and why we are the leader in the state - we want to keep it that way!

The Professional Futures Fund

The Professional Futures Fund was set up many years ago to fund the Association's state lobbying efforts. This money paid for a full time lobbyist to work on your behalf year round and represent the funeral service profession on the Hill during the Virginia General Assembly session as well as attend key meeting with legislators, state officials and alike.

This fund is the number one reason members renew their membership in the Association. That's how powerful the legislative efforts are. As a member body, we employ one of the top lobbying firms in the state and, as a direct result, have the top lobbyists working on our behalf. That's a big deal - something we can only do as we bring our resources together in one united place to fund the excellence.

Under the direction of Angie Bezik and Julie Dime, the VFDA's voice continues to grow on the hill and we are being noticed more and more. I witnessed that a few weeks ago during committee hearings. The Professional Futures Fund is an investment that protects you and your profession. It's the single most important thing you can do looking to the future.

The PAC Fund

The PAC funds have been around for years. They are highly regulated and give you a powerful individual voice. A few years ago I thought it was important that our Association start a PAC, to get the Association out in front of legislators and give members opportunities to meet legislators at events and receptions. It goes far, when you are at a reception and can speak with a legislator one on one, even for just a few minutes, they remember that and it can make a huge difference during session.

The VFDA PAC is governed by a committee and a committee chair. The mission of the VFDA PAC is to educate lawmakers on the important issues with the views and interests of all Virginia funeral service professionals. We believe it is crucial to our profession to gain legislators support and intend to do so through the PAC. Key points about the PAC:

How Does a PAC Work for You?

- It allows VFDA to personally educate members of the Virginia General Assembly, in addition and as a team with the voices of our professional legislators, on the needs of funeral service professionals - ultimately securing their support in our behalf.
- It allows VFDA to concentrate efforts on lawmakers who are members of the committees critical to funeral service issues.
- It gives VFDA representatives the opportunity to see key Virginia lawmakers at their campaign events and discuss our positions on important issues.
- It raises the visibility of funeral service provider's views, interests and concerns among lawmakers.

The Importance of a Strong PAC

- A strong VFDA PAC is an important tool for building our relationship with Virginia's lawmakers to hear our voice and be heard each Virginia General Assembly session.
- Our PAC must have the resources available to help counter the message of those other groups.

How Do Politicians Use PAC Money?

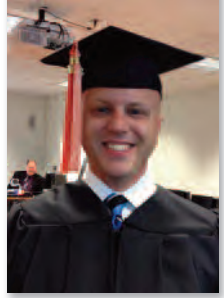

- Politicians cannot use official state resources (i.e. your tax dollars) toward their campaigns, so they rely on money contributed by individuals and PACS for campaign funds.
- PAC contributions are used to pay for campaign staff, commercials, signs, handouts, etc.
- Campaign money is heavily regulated and policed by the State Board of Elections.

The VFDA had the privilege of sponsoring with other lobbying clients of Williams Mullen a reception at the beginning of the General Assembly session and it was a wonderful opportunity to get in front of key legislators.

Why I Chose to Become a Funeral Service Licensee

by Daniel Woodfin

My name is Daniel Woodfin. I have been intrigued by funeral service since I was a young boy.

I'm a lifelong resident of Chesterfield County and a newly licensed funeral director and embalmer in the Commonwealth of Virginia. I graduated from JTCC in May 2014 under the direction of Rhonda Pleasants and Michael Moore. My story began on September 1, 2010.

My father, Lin Woodfin passed away suddenly in his yard in Amelia County, VA at 5:30 in the afternoon. My father had pre-funded his funeral arrangements with a local cremation-only facility a few years before his death. When he died, the Amelia Sheriff's office was called and was on scene with us that entire evening. The deputy sheriff, Sgt. Will Jones, also my cousin, notified the cremation facility at 6:00 p.m. of his passing so they could come out to transfer him into their care. After many phone calls to them they finally picked him up at 2:30 a.m. As a son, I was horrified because my father laid in the yard for over 6 hours.

The next day, I met with the director and signed all of the required documents and purchased an urn. About a week later, the director called and stated that my father's cremated remains were ready for pickup. However, I would need to file his death certificate myself because they would not travel to Amelia because it was too far. I entered their facility to receive his cremains and the director came out and handed me my father's in a clear gallon Ziploc bag, not the urn that I purchased and not the normal bag that I am accustomed to today. He did apologize and said he was sorry that the urn was not ready, but he would personally deliver the urn to me when it arrived.

I felt that it was very strange that I had to file his death certificate and I had no idea that cremated remains were put in Ziploc bags. I didn't question the procedure because I had no idea that it shouldn't have been handled that way - I didn't know any better. I did however make a formal complaint about the length of time it took for them to pick him up.

One of my long-time friends is Bob Brown from Bliley's. After going over the situation with him, he stated that the whole process was not only unprofessional but he also confirmed my own fear of it being unethical. The more time that went by, the more and more time I had to think about it, my interest in funeral service and my drive to serve families in a much better way than the way in which my family was served grew. I knew it was time to switch careers.

Four months after my father died, I left a 10-year, large salary, plus commission career and co-workers that I loved to become an intern at Bennett Funeral Home.

I left this job while supporting a wife and two sons. I made this decision because I knew in my heart that I could do better. I could make a difference. I also began classes at JTCC in August 2011. I worked for and learned a large amount of knowledge, compassion and funeral home ethics from Sam Harrison and the other directors at Bennett's. In March of 2014, I continued my career by taking a position at Morrisett Funeral and Cremation Service in Chesterfield. After completing my education at JTCC and completing my internship while at Morrisett, I passed the required Board exams and Larry Spiaggi and Dick Booker offered me a position as a Director with their firm, Morrisett Funeral Home and Cremation Service.

I am extremely happy and satisfied with a career as a funeral director, especially with Morrisett because this company lives by the principles that I strive to live by. Each decedent and their family are served with dignity and respect; something I don't feel I, or my father, was afforded in 2010. Over the last four years that I have been serving families in my community as an intern and as a director, I have never worked so many long hours, holidays and weekends in my life. But with the support of my wife and our now FOUR boys, the support of the owners and staff of Morrisett, I wouldn't trade my career for any other.

This profession is truly a calling. As they say, if you truly love what you do, you never work a day in your life.

"This profession is truly a calling. As they say, if you truly love what you do, you never work a day in your life."

Experience the Difference.

Celebrant Training Testimonials

Just gave my first service – it went absolutely beautifully. The family’s eyes were shining from tears, but also from the love they had for their husband/father. Calling out memories and special moments, I felt I was wrapping them in a big oversized fuzzy blanket. They laughed and cried and were full of compliments after the service. My FD was there as well – also smiling and laughing. Afterwards, she said “good for you. And good for me for realizing how good you’d be!” Perhaps the greatest compliment I got was from the son-in-law who was at the family meeting. He said after I left that evening, he could just feel the whole house relax and they continued to tell stories and laugh well into the night. I still can’t believe how completely sensational your training was. You hit every nail smack on the head and gave us an incredible depth of knowledge about what people who have just suffered a loss are going through, how to relate to them and, most importantly, help them. I know not all funerals are going to go so smoothly – but this was just a perfect way to start. Thanks again.

– Yarden Rand Celebrant from RI

One of our staff members, Ryan Gieni, just returned from the Celebrant training course in Toronto. He said that the weekend was fabulous. Absolutely fantastic! He presented some of his learnings to the rest of our staff this morning, and he’ll be doing a celebrant service demonstration for us all in the near future. Thank you for providing such an informative, educational and useful training program. We hope to put Ryan’s training to good use in the future.

– Kirstie Smolyk Vice President Park Memorial Ltd. Edmonton, AB

I thought I was going to the Celebrant Training in Niagara Falls to get a credential that would improve my employability as an apprentice with the funeral homes. I had no idea that I was joining a movement with a simple but revolutionary mission of compassion at its heart. I’m eager to begin. Your preparation was superb. I wish you a warm reception wherever you go.

The Foundation

The Foundation is governed by a Board of Trustees consisting of Past Presidents of the VFDA. The mission of the Virginia Funeral Directors Association Foundation (VFDAF) engages business and community partners in the support of professionals and students currently in or entering the funeral service profession through education, advocacy and leadership development.

By doing this, the VFDAF will help to eliminate barriers to opportunities by helping people to reach their fullest potential. Your donation is a generous way of honoring your family, friends, colleagues and employers. Memorial contributions are a special way of remembering loved ones. Annual publication of donations will appear in the Fall issue of The Bulletin, VFDA convention publications, and on the VFDA Foundation website.

Because of the Foundation we are able to:

- Offer college scholarships to future funeral directors and those in the funeral profession.
- Provide Under 40 Leadership Forums with dynamic speakers.
- Create opportunities for individual professionals and students to further their potential.

You can find information about the Foundation in The Bulletin. The Foundation also, through essay contests, awards paid registrations to the national conventions for young professionals who have never attended.

Give me a call or send me an email so we can talk about how you can positively influence and be part of these great funding efforts!

Sincerely,

Lacy Whittaker

THIRD ANNUAL SILENT AUCTION

Will You Support the Third Annual VFDAF Silent Auction?

On June 14-17, 2015, the Virginia Funeral Directors Association Foundation will hold its 3rd Annual Virginia Funeral Directors Association Foundation Silent Auction. The silent auction will take place during the 127th Annual Virginia Funeral Directors Association convention at The Hotel Roanoke & Conference Center. This year we are committed to making our third silent auction a huge success, and I'm hoping you will help.

We're currently collecting merchandise and services for our event and I'm writing to request your support. By making a package and/or monetary donations to the silent auction, you'd be making a tax-deductible contribution that will help the Virginia Funeral Directors Association Foundation continue its mission of engaging business and community partners in the support of professionals and students currently in or entering the funeral service profession through education, advocacy and leadership development.

By doing this, the VFDAF will help to eliminate barriers to opportunities by helping people to reach their fullest potential. You will also gain valuable exposure at our convention. Last year's silent auction brought in over $3,500 and over 200 attendees bid on auction items.

The Virginia Funeral Directors Association

To recognize the generosity and support of our donors, we'd like to display business information for all of our donors near the items and services they donate. To help us support you, please be sure to include business cards and/or brochures that we can use to promote you and your donation and have them to us by May 1, 2015. Thank you for your support!

Are you willing to donate an item of $100 or more for our auction? Your donations can be items to in baskets, an entire basket or monetary.

Foundation is a non-profit organization formed to support professionals and students currently in or entering the funeral service profession through education, advocacy and leadership development. The Foundation is committed to helping students finish their education in the funeral service profession and support their continued leadership development. The money raised through the Foundation last year allowed us to hold a one-day Leadership Forum for those professional under 40 years of age in Charlottesville, Virginia. Your donations allow for the Foundation to continue these types of programs in years to come. This is our third annual silent auction and we are depending on members like you to help support this year's auction and its continued success in future years.

To give you a better idea of our organization and mission, please feel free to visit the website at www.vfda.net or contact us at 804-264-0505. We'd love to tell you more about who we are and what we do. Thank you for your consideration and best wishes from all of us at the Virginia Funeral Directors Association Foundation.

Sincerely,

Joseph W. Teague
Chairman
Virginia Funeral Directors Association Foundation

Once your company is insured by Optima Health at the determined premium level, indicate you are a member of Virginia Virginia Funeral Directors Association and these value-added benefits will be included in your plan at no additional premium cost.

What if we already offer Optima Health plans?

If you already offer an Optima Health plan, you can add these benefits to your plan at renewal at no additional cost. Contact your local agent for more information.

What if I don't have two or more employees and still need coverage?

Optima Health can also meet your unique needs with Optima Individual health plans. To get a free quote, apply online or to get more information, please see the contact information below.

How do I get more information? Contact your current agent or

Keynote Speaker Patrick Henry

Don't miss motivational speaker Patrick Henry on Tuesday, June 16, 2015 at the 127th Annual Convention in Roanoke, Virginia! Patrick will also keep us laughing as he entertains us after the Tuesday evening Farewell banquet.

As a former Nashville songwriter and current SiriusXM radio personality on The Family Comedy Channel and Blue Collar Radio, Patrick believes that the height of learning happens while we are being entertained...and so do the over one thousand meeting planners who have hired him.

Patrick Henry is more than a motivational humorist, He is a performance keynote speaker and is obsessed with showing audiences how to create extraordinary engagement at home, at work, and in the community. The challenge in the marketplace is that customer loyalty is fragile. Products, services, and ideas are being differentiated based on price rather than value.

Patrick shows how to create a value based customer relationship. He knows that if you can't create an emotional connection with your customers, clients, and coworkers, you're going to lose them. This will be a presentation to remember!

EXHIBITOR RULES

1. VFDA as used herein shall mean the Virginia Funeral Directors Association, Inc. or its officers or agents or employees acting for it in the management of the Exhibit.
2. Eligible Exhibits. VFDA reserved the right to determine the eligibility of any company, individual or product for inclusion in the Exhibit as an exhibitor.
3. Limitation of Liability. The Exhibitor agrees to make no claim for any reason whatsoever, including negligence, against the Exhibit for the VFDA its members or agents or employees, for loss, theft, damage or destruction of merchandise, nor for any injury to himself or employee while in the Exhibit quarters.
4. Defacing the Building. Exhibitors are liable for any damage caused by fastening displays or fixtures to the building floors, walls, or to the standard booth equipment, or for damage caused in any other manner. Exhibitors may not apply paint, lacquer, adhesive or any other coating to building walls and floors or to standard booth equipment. Exhibitors agree to hold VFDA harmless for any claims for such damages including the payment of VFDA for reasonable attorney's fees incurred to defend against such claims.
5. Insurance. Fire and theft insurance, if so desired must be taken out by each exhibitor at his own expense.
6. Exhibitor Representatives' Responsibility. Each exhibitor must name at least one person to be it representative in connection with installation, operation and removal of exhibit. Such representative shall be authorized to enter into such service contracts as may be necessary, and for which the Exhibitor shall be responsible.
7. Exhibit Hours. The exhibit hours are shown on the agenda. Exhibitors will be required to comply strictly.
8. Shipment of Exhibit Material. Each exhibitor will receive a notice from the exhibiting company designated by the VFDA. This notice will include the prices for the rental of furniture, draperies, special construction, etc. The information will reach each signed exhibitor in ample time for advance planning of merchandise shipments.
9. Attendance. Admission to the meetings and continuing education classes is included.
10. Cancellation of Exhibit Space. If an Exhibitor cancels their contracted space after the deadline for full payment, the following is the refund policy.
 - a. A refund will only be considered if the VFDA has received full payment for the booth space.
 - b. If VFDA is able to re-sell said space up to 30 days prior to the Exhibitor move-in date, 25% of the payment would be refunded.
 - c. If cancellation is made with less than 30 days prior to the Exhibitor move-in date, or if space is not re-sold, there will be no refund.
11. Amendment to Rules. Any and all matters or questions not specifically covered by the preceding rules and regulations shall be subjected solely to the decision of the VFDA. These rule and regulations may be amended by the VFDA at any time by the VFDA and all amendments so made shall be binding on exhibitors equally with the foregoing rules and regulations.

2015 LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

02.09.15 Legislative Update 2015 General Assembly Session

We are quickly approaching crossover, the time at which all surviving legislation “crosses over” from the originating body to the “other body.” Additionally, on Sunday, February 8, the House and the Senate presented their budgets.

Below is the list of legislation we have been monitoring as well as our own legislation – and the status of each. Sometimes bills can be heard after communication to the “other body” before crossover, but it is unlikely that these will be heard before crossover.

Bills	Committee	Last action	Date
HB 1432 - Cole - Health care providers; regulation, prohibited acts, Class 1 misdemeanor.	(H) Committee for Courts of Justice	(H) Subcommittee recommends laying on the table	01/14/15 DEAD
HB 1435 - O'Bannon - Physician assistants and nurse practitioners; appointment as medical examiners. (H) Committee on Health, Welfare	and Institutions (S) Committee on Education and Health (S) Referred to Committee on	Education and Health	01/27/15 SUPPORT – COMMUNICATED TO THE SENATE

Professional Futures Fund

Dear Members and Friends,

I would like to reach out to you today about questions which are extremely important to all of us in funeral service. How can the VFDA protect you, the funeral director, against over regulation or bad policies in the Commonwealth? How can the VFDA improve your futures through the legislative process in Richmond?

Each year, a number of bills are presented that may have an effect on how you serve your client families. Some of this legislation may have a positive impact but some may affect your ability to better serve your community in a negative way.

In order to insure your voice is heard in Richmond, we need to speak as an association with one voice. We have continued the "One Voice" message started last year to insure that our legislators understand that we are united as funeral directors in our efforts and there is no confusion in our position.

Our lobbyists, Angela Bezik and Julie Dime of Williams-Mullen, are experienced and influential in Richmond.

We believe their work as our lobbyist is essential and at the core of VFDA being successful in our legislative efforts.

- They conduct research on our behalf for the legislators
- They distill the mass of information relating to public policy issues
- They gather information, review and analyze data, and explain the advantages and disadvantages of pieces of legislation to benefit each of us
- They organize information and create graphs, charts, polls and reports to present in our behalf
- They truly represent our opinions and our needs – They give the VFDA a voice!

Angela and Julie act as a mouthpiece for funeral directors that otherwise might not be heard. Because they are professional persuaders, they have the knowledge, resources and ability to influence legislators and, therefore, legislation, in ways individuals and small groups may not be able.

The VFDA can protect you, the funeral director, against over regulation or bad policies in the Commonwealth. The VFDA can improve your futures through the legislative process in Richmond. We need your continued donations to protect your rights and our industry.

Our lobbying efforts for VFDA are funded by the Professional Futures Fund. As the opening of the legislature nears, we need your help in making sure the voice of all funeral directors in Virginia is heard loud and clear.

Please consider making a donation to the Professional Futures Fund to help sustain the legislative efforts of VFDA in Richmond.

– Sincerely, Rob Finch, VFDA President

Create a Blissful Life – It's All About Living in the Flow

by Betsy B. Muller, MBA, ACP-EFT, CEHP

Life as a Funeral Director brings abundant challenges, unexpected demands and opportunities that require working with people who are clouded by grief and family demands. Have you noticed how some people can stay positive, calm, and productive no matter what's going on? You know what I'm talking about – that widow who is able to stay clear, kind and focused on the hardest day of her life, the colleague who remains cool when a customer lashes out, the speaker who confidently shares a moving eulogy, or a singer who performs from a place of pure joy. It's often called "Being in the Flow" and it's magical to see.

You can't help but wonder - what is the secret?

No matter what you do or where you are now, there are ways to live life with your "joy meter dialed to high" in both your work and your personal life.

Consider these 10 ideas to bring more balance, bliss and joy to your days:

1. Get in Touch with Your Values, wishes and what you hold dear. Make a list of 100 things that are important to you – what you love, want to accomplish, be, do or have. Be creative and enjoy the fun of this exercise.

2. List 10 Positive Qualities about yourself, including complements you have received over the years.

3. Recall Your Happiest Life Moments. Where were you? What were you doing and with whom? Are there certain places, activities, people or challenges that make you feel most joyful and alive?

4. Be Grateful Now. Make a list of 25 things you are grateful for having in your life. Include both material and non-material things.

5. Identify Common Themes. Review what you've come up with in 1-4 above and notice repeating themes related to both work and leisure. How do these themes utilize your talents or address your dreams?

6. Shift Choices to Important Themes. For example, if you identified the common theme of nature or outdoors, pay attention to that. By choosing to spend more time outdoors each week, you could increase your potential for living in a more blissful state more of the time.

7. Find Opportunities to Use Your Gifts. Volunteer your talents to the service of others, whether at work or in the community. Perhaps you could start a new venture using these gifts, or ask for opportunities where you work now. Take on new projects or tasks that allow you to explore and further develop your gifts. Deliberately spend more time doing what you like, are good at and what makes you feel good.

8. Pay Attention! Our bodies and our emotions give us constant feedback about what is working and also what's uncomfortable. As you begin integrating more of what you love into life, you should feel great. It's still a new concept, so keep the senses alert to guidance so that the positive changes gain momentum

9. Ask for Help. Engage a buddy, coach or therapist to help you gain insights on your greatest areas of difficulty. It's normal to have blind spots and fears. There is no need to face these alone. Bringing in another person will help you stay on track, remind you of your progress and celebrate with you as you succeed.

10. Celebrate. Being in the flow can happen sooner than you ever imagined. Make a promise to celebrate as you notice your life getting easier, more balanced and joyful, even if this is subtle. Acknowledge your progress and keep your attention toward what really matters.

As you create a life filled with choices reflecting what you love, your heart will soar and you'll be spending more and more time in the flow. Enjoy the ride!

No matter what you do or where you are now, there are ways to live life with your "joy meter dialed to high" in both your work and your personal life.

Find Opportunities to Use Your Gifts: Volunteer your talents to the service of others, whether at work or in the community.

WINTER CONFERENCE RECAP & REMINDERS!

The VFDA's 8th Annual Winter Conference, yes, we changed the name, was held in Richmond, Virginia on January 25-26, 2015. Attendees arrived on Sunday evening and enjoyed an incredible meal and fellowship at the Tobacco Company Restaurant. The following day was packed with informative presentations and round-table discussions ranging from ways to better work together with LifeNet Health to the EDRS update and improvements to future legislative issues. A very special thank you to our sponsors Federated Insurance and Fairfax Memorial Funeral Home, LLC.
